

The X-Wife

Britney Beers left the Grammy Awards in tears. It was bad enough that she hadn't been nominated for any awards, but to watch that Amy Wineglass receive five trophies was just too much. Whose tabloid-tainted lifestyle warranted more attention, anyway? Britney grabbed Adnan, her current boy-toy, and left the Staples Center shouting, "We'll show you!" The two drove to Las Vegas to get away from the evenings insults.

Britney and Adnan hit the bars, then the tables. Besides his successful celebrity photo business, Adnan has been practicing card counting and considers himself quite the blackjack card counting expert. He heads for the $1,000 minimum tables. Meanwhile, Britney neglects to slow down on her alcohol intake. Just as Adnan doubles down on a $5,000 bet, Britney starts to wail and shout, "Can you believe that Amy Wineglass won five awards? And who can believe that the Herbie Hancock won Album of the Year?" Fearing a scene, Adnan loses concentration, and loses his bets. He decides that a change of scenery is in order. Grabbing Britney by the arm, he steers her to the Mirage to catch a showing of "Love," Cirque du Soleil's tribute to the Beatles. Britney enjoys the show and begins to calm down. After the show, feeling "in love," Britney and Adnan decide to get married. The two head to the chapel and are married by a justice of the peace. Neither Britney nor Adnan can remember the rest of the night.

Adnan decides to stay in Las Vegas to photograph celebrities and count cards. Britney returns to Hollywood. She takes a pregnancy test: "Oooops, I did it again." Shortly thereafter, she shaves her head and joins a cult. After three months of blissful long-distance marriage, Britney picks up an incoming call from X-Wife, Adnan's ex-wife. X-Wife informs Britney that she is in possession of a sex-tape between Britney and Adnan that she will sell to the highest bidder. She also suspects that Britney is pregnant. X-Wife wants more alimony. After being dumped and humiliated by Adnan, she feels she deserves to be compensated.

ALIMONY RULE:

A person receiving alimony has the right to re-negotiate alimony when obliging spouse/partner has a change in monetary status.

In the renegotiation of support, the court may look to a new spouse's income in determining spousal support.